A student wishing to protest a course grade or initiate a grievance should follow procedures as detailed in the current University Announcements. All grievances involving a protest of a final grade must be filed within 90 calendar days from the last examination date for the term. Incomplete grades are counted as failing grades until they are resolved. Students are allowed 30 days after the beginning of the next scheduled session, excluding summers and regardless of the student's enrollment status, to remove the incomplete grade. (Students are prohibited from removing the incomplete grade by repeating the course.) See current University Announcements for further information.
